

Short scientific report SKIES, 2024

The NOVA-SKIES workshop 2024 had 19 participants, both PhDs students and PDs from all the Dutch astronomical institutes and departments. At the end of the 2-day workshop, they were asked to evaluate the programme anonymously and they gave an average of 4.2 out of 5. During the two days, they became aware of the entrepreneurial skills that they are acquiring doing research in astronomy and understand how they can develop their competence and transfer them to any career they will decide to pursue, either within or outside academia. They also had the opportunity to expand their network thanks to the presents of 11 speakers (alumni from the Dutch astro institutes and the people working in the space sector), and to test their skill through activities done in the workshop.
